

The School of Social Work at UT Arlington is a research powerhouse committed to facilitating lifelong learning and providing an environment that supports self-reflection, personal development, and professional growth. Its mission is to promote the highest standards of integrity and excellence in research, teaching, and service while creating collaborative scholarly and educational opportunities for students and the community, with the goal of achieving a just society.

Since 1967, the school has advanced society's understanding of social justice and trained numerous social advocates who have improved millions of lives through awareness, education, interdisciplinary research, and evidence-based clinical practice. Today, the School of Social Work is one of the largest in the country and is recognized as an international leader in social work education. It offers two undergraduate degrees (Bachelor of Social Work, Bachelor of Science in substance use and treatment), a Master of Social Work in five concentration options, a Doctor of Philosophy in social work, and six graduate certificates.
